DETAILED ACTION

1. This office action is in response to applicant's amendment filed 2/10/03, wherein claim 1 was amended; and claim 9 was canceled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1-8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, there is no positive antecedent basis for "the saw blade motor".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mains in view of Fujikawa, U.S. Patent 4,365,871.

Mains discloses the invention substantially as claimed except for the hydraulic system for operating the drive means and the extension means that uses a charge accumulator for delaying the time of engagement of the saw blade and the extension means. However, Fujikawa discloses that it is old and well known in the art to use hydraulic circuit systems for a driving means of a tool as well as an extension means for the tool, wherein a charge accumulator (including a time delay valve for varying threshold hydraulic pressure in the charge accumulator) is used for delaying the time of engagement of the tool and extension means (for example, see column 4, lines 5-15) for the purpose of preventing damage to the tool. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to use a hydraulic circuit system with charge accumulator for delaying the time of engagement of the tool and extension means in order to prevent damage to the tool.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
